HERE IN TASMANIA - TRUE STORIES

Duh... (Legana)

A young man entered a service station and while the operator was busy, slipped into the staff room and helped himself to the operator's credit card which was with the operator's personal belongings. A short time later the operator discovered something had happened and called police who attended and took a report.

An hour or so later, the young offender came back to the servo and bought petrol.

You don't get any prizes for guessing how he tried to pay for the petrol, nor what happened to him when he handed the credit card to the operator at the servo, who just happened to be the card owner.
